WHAT DID WE GET UP TO?

Tobi Crosbie, CEO & Founder

This has been another very busy quarter at Making Moves. The summer period came with (very) hot weather and a stream of exciting activities topped off by the Startups 100 Awards. On the night, we finished in a very impressive No.38 out of all the top startups currently in the UK. I also had the pleasure of taking part in the fireside chat with the winners Bulb and Perkbox, to discuss the challenges facing Startups in the next 12 months.

We enjoyed our summer drinks party on the new and very entertaining Roof east in Stratford and organised a Caribbean themed night to celebrate Notting Hill Carnival weekend.

We continue to grow as a business and now have numerous roles available in various departments including our Technical Team (Project Manager) and Operations (Office Manager). If you are interested then please do contact us in the strictest confidence at info@makingmoves.london

LONDON HOTSPOT: White City

White City has seen a lot of growth and development recently. Westworks has been given a new life delivering more than half a million square feet of new flexible accommodation.

Eat: This September, Mumbai-inspired restaurant Krickit opens its doors in White City. The menu makes the most of British seasonal ingredients and includes dishes such as a grouse kebab and a game keema naan.

Drink: Now that Autumn is coming, Albertine is the perfect cosy, candle lit place to gorge on charcuterie boards and fine wine.

Play: The newest venture from Soho House transforms part of the iconic White City BBC building into a modern member's club with 'a midcentury vibe, hints of Mad Men and a touch of the Palm Springs about it'. Check it out.
